SALT LAKE'S NEW ERA.

Quietly and without any ado about it, the Las Vegas & Tonopah road has been completed to the Bullfrog camps and will be opened for business early next week with an excursion from Los Angeles and Salt Lake, which will afford an opportunity for the visitors to look over the ground and investigate business openings in the new territory.

The excursion from Salt Lake starts from here tomorrow afternoon under the auspices of the Commercial club, and a number of prominent business men will make the trip. The occasion marks the addition of considerable territory to the city's commercial field and the certainty that business relations of importance will be established between the points in southern Nevada and Salt Lake, which is the natural outlet for the ores and ore products of the new camps. Capitalists of this city have heavy investments in the new camps, their interests are here as well as there; this is the smelter center of the Nevada mines, and to this point they turn naturally for mining machinery, mining supplies and the equipment that goes to establish mining operations on a practical basis. It is to be hoped that Salt Lake's will get their full share of the business in and out of the new territory and that relations which will be established by the visit will be increasingly profitable and pleasant as the country tributary to the new line is developed.

With the new line to Ely, the new line to Beatty and Rhyolite, the increasing importance of the trade with Tonopah, Goldfield and adjacent camps, with the Western Pacific preparing to open an immense area of new country, there can no longer be any question about Salt Lake's pre-eminence as a commercial, mining and railroad center for all time to come. That this is appreciated by outsiders quite as much or more so than by local people is shown by the influx of new capital and the constant appreciation of real estate, particularly in the business part of the city. The transfer of the street railway and lighting system to the Harriman interests and the assurance that it will be followed by the reconstruction of the whole street railway system; the promise of traction lines through the valley which will make available and valuable large tracts of hitherto remote land—these things show that outsiders have implicit confidence in the future of Salt Lake and are prepared to reap the advantage of its growth and prosperity.

The confidence is rightly based on the natural commanding position of the city geographically, on its great contiguous mines, its rich agricultural and livestock territory, on its splendid climate and desirability as a place to live in. In spite of the political disturbances that have been a drawback, Salt Lake is coming into its own and the next few years will find it modernized, a delightful city of homes, a great banking center—the best city in all the intermountain region and one of the best in the whole country.

THE ONE ISSUE.

One question is of the greatest importance in this campaign and it overshadows any other issue: Do the people of Utah want to see the fight between the Smoot faction and the "American" faction of the Republican party kept up at the expense of the state, or do they want to settle it now?

If you happen to ask a follower of these factions whether he would like to have peace in Utah, he will agree at once that nothing would please him better, but at the same time he will declare he does not mean to stop fighting until the other faction is whipped to a standstill.

If you ask any citizen who is not identified with either faction, he will declare that the one handicap of the state is the everlasting political discussion and guerilla warfare between the two wings of the Republican party.

Excepting the very few politicians who profit by the disturbance and turmoil, every citizen of this state is tired of the chronic warfare and would gladly see it ended and the warriors put out of commission.

There is just one way to accomplish this desirable and desired end, and that is by electing men to office who are not identified with any faction, who are opposed alike to appeals to religious prejudice and to religious fears, who are committed to no man's political ambitions and are indebted to no one man or clique for their nomination. The Democratic ticket and platform offer a complete and final solution of the troubles of Utah, because Democratic success would remove both the machine Republicans and the machine "Americans" from active politics and restore to Utah such peace as it has not known in three years.

THE LAND OFFICE DEFENSE.

According to The Herald's Washington correspondence, the officials of the land office do not regard the evidence in the recent coal land investigations as important. They say the land office investigated the allegations of fraud a long while ago and found nothing to substantiate the charges. Besides, so the land office officials aver, there is nothing to be gained by an investigation since the patents were issued so long ago they are protected by the statute of limitations.

Doubtless Mr. Mondell and Mr. Richards, both of Wyoming, and both, in their time, commissioners of the general land office, agree with the conclusions reached by subordinate officials that the coal land investigation is useless. It is, of course, only a coincidence that their own state is concerned in some of the most serious cases of alleged fraud, and there can be no possible connection between the charges of fraudulent coal land entry and their appointment to one of the most important offices under the government. At the same time the discriminating mind may suspect some cause for this eager defense of the land office before the result of the investigation is submitted to the president; and the friends of Mr. Mondell and Mr. Richards will wish their subordinates had not been so precipitate in their efforts to discredit the investigation.

If the land office and the Wyoming Republicans who have been identified with it so conspicuously are clear of wrong-doing, they ought to be glad to have their records investigated; and if they are proper subjects of inquiry the public will be glad to have them investigated. In either event, as government officials they ought to observe the proprieties and not publicly discredit the action of another department of the administration acting under direction of the president. Here in the west there has been more than a suspicion for a long time that Republican politics in Wyoming and the looting of the public lands in some form or other were synonymous propositions. The evidence so far developed has been strong in substantiation of the fact that somebody had done a lot of crooked work in the location of public lands. The sooner the facts are known and the suspicions proved or disproved, the better it will be for the public.

LITTLEFIELD AND LABOR.

Mr. Littlefield of Maine is coming to speak in Utah on behalf of the Smoot Republican ticket, and his selection to represent the administration is eminently fitting. To be sure, he is sent to the "wild and woolly west" because the Republican managers of the more sophisticated east will not have him, and he must be sent somewhere; but just the same he is the right man to speak for Republicanism.

To begin with, Mr. Littlefield's most recent distinction is the fight made against him by the American Federation of Labor because of his antagonism to all the legislation desired by the Federation at the hands of congress. But that is a minor distinction as compared with the interests he represents. Mr. Littlefield is from the home of the Dingell tariff; he is and has been a most consistent supporter of all the legislation desired by the trusts. He stands, with his party, not only against the demands of labor, but in favor of everything the trusts want. As between piratical organizations of capital and the common citizen, Mr. Littlefield may be depended upon to stand with the organizations that furnish the campaign funds for his party and take their pay in legislative favors.

His position needs no further commentary than the bare statement that he is one of Speaker Cannon's favorites, committed to the stand-pat policy, which means exploitation of the common people for the benefit of the few. He ought to be a strong factor in the Utah campaign, a factor for the defeat of the Republican machine.

Because Mr. Murphy said some of the candidates in New York were being blackmailed to get their nominations endorsed by the Independence League, Mr. Jerome has instituted a grand jury investigation and issued a subpoena for Murphy. Politics has reached a parous stage if a politician is to be asked to substantiate every charge he makes against the other man.

As Mulvaney once remarked, "the day of miracles has come; they'll be raising our pay next." The Standard Oil company has actually been found guilty of conspiracy—and in an Ohio court, too.

Whatever the outcome of the Sheets case, it ought to be clear by this time that it was not the chief of police who was bounced out of $10,000, as some of his friends would have had us believe.
